Coach Paul DeStefano has been a teacher, athletic director and coach in the Washington Metropolitan Area for over 30 years. Currently, he is the Boys Varsity Basketball Coach at St. John's. He has been the Boys Varsity Coach at St. John's for the past fourteen years. This will be his fourteenth year as the Director of the St. John's Basketball Camp.

Coach DeStefano has always emphasized the fundamentals. It is this attention to basic skills development that will make the St. John's Basketball Camp a tremendous learning experience.

Coach DeStefano is looking forward to directing the St. John's Basketball Camp this summer. It is part of his coaching career that he thoroughly enjoys. "Working with youngsters in a camp environment is something that I have always enjoyed. It is my goal as the Director of the St. John's Basketball Camp to make sure that all campers learn the game, have fun playing it, improve their skills, and make new friends."

BASKETBALL CAMP GOALS

To develop basic skills such as passing, dribbling, shooting, rebounding, and playing defense. To provide an environment in which all campers have fun playing basketball.

While developing the individual skills of each camper, the St. John's Basketball Camp teaches and stresses the importance of team play.

At the conclusion of the camp, the St. John's Basketball Camp wants all campers to realize what it takes to become a good basketball player (good attitude, hard work, willingness to learn and listen, and the ability to blend individual skills with the team concept).
